Community Research Initiative of New England (CRI) is an independent, nonprofit, community-based organization dedicated to HIV clinical research, treatment education, and financial assistance for approved drug treatments and health insurance coverage.

Working to improve the lives of people living with HIV/AIDS for over 20 years, Boston-based CRI (led by Dr. Calvin Cohen, Director of Research) has participated in and initiated some of the most promising HIV medication research being conducted in the world. Through its continued outreach efforts, CRI provides the latest critical treatment information to all people living with HIV/AIDS, including women, people of color, and others who have been traditionally underserved.

CRI has produced crucial research and drug testing data that has contributed to the FDA approval of almost all of the HIV treatments currently available. What CRI discovers from the advanced clinical research that it conducts in Massachusetts, Florida, California, New York, Washington, DC, Texas, Arizona, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, and Minnesota has the potential to help people all over the world who are living with HIV.

CRI's Circle of Friends

FLORIDA PARTY 2010

Join us for an evening of friends, fun, cocktails, food, and music as we honor CRI's leading-edge HIV research and raise funds to support studies throughout Florida.

These exciting studies have the potential to provide more effective treatment options and safer drug regimens to people living with HIV here and around the world.
